

Promises. Promises?

Union organizers can – and do – make promises to try to gain employee support, but they legally do not have to keep their promises.

With a union, everything – pay, benefits, working conditions, how scheduling is done – must be negotiated, and you could end up with less, more, or the same as you have now.