

Know Your Rights

If your coworkers are organizing to unionize, you might feel pressured to support the union, even if it's not what you personally want.

Remember, you have the right to:

- Receive factual information about unions to make an informed decision.
- Decline to speak to a union organizer and ask them to stop contacting you or to not come to your home.
- Not sign a union authorization card or provide the union with your contact information.
- Refuse to recruit your coworkers, pass out union flyers, or attend a union meeting, even if you signed a union authorization card.
- Request the union to return or revoke your union authorization card.

Whether or not to support a union is YOUR choice.
